

Creating Effective and Exciting Compositions in Watercolor, II

Chee Ricketts, Instructor

This class will explore possibilities for using color, line and shape by applying design fundamentals such as balance, repetition, and contrast to the organization of paintings. Topics will focus on use of color relationships, lines, values and shapes in composition. Each class will include a time for the sharing of participants' paintings, instructor demonstrations, and the opportunity to create original compositions from subject matter that interests each class member.
